The Warm Up

Out of the MTR exit A3 through the crowded shopping areas of Wanchai. I noticed the SCMP blaring that the PLA took first and second in Trailwalkers and everyone else crying foul. If only Niggles hadn't done in his ankle gloating at how much faster he was than the thin Dr. Evil, I'm sure he could have beaten the entire PLA single handed. Continued my stroll to the big Hopeless Centre, and offset slightly to the left elevated is a small somewhat hidden sitting out area which would be our A.

It looked like it might be a free hash today as our hash cash F3M was spending her day paddling around Hong Kong Island. It took the appearance of an exchange hash as well as we were hosting Tokyo's Crusader and Tokyo had our Hopeless who was sending us dispatches from his hotel toilet via Facebook.

Briefing given by the hares PussyWhipped and Dominatrix and off we went...

The Run

Off to our left is the Spring Garden staircase and one way to go, up! A nice check on Kennedy Road gave us a brief run to the left before resuming up, up and up on Wanchai Gap Road. Well next is Bowen and most hares will give a nice horizontal break there. But not our hares. A three way check had already been marked and it was continue on up Wanchai Gap Road.

At this point I had the very nice company of G-String, Marafat, Hasher Yvette, and the always lovely Stroke Me Harder. Wimps split greeted us on a pathway going right just before we were to hit Stubbs Road. All of us gleefully decided on this option. This is a nice path that goes around and beneath the Oasis apartments. We did have one check that had us scratching our heads a bit but G-String noted that Smallbone had gone straight and hadn't been seen since so off we went to quickly find the on-on.

We found our right turn and now it was down, down, down. Our down path brought us to Bowen Garden where Bowen Drive breaks off of Bowen Road. Trail was found on Bowen Drive taking us to the petrol station on Kennedy Road. To the right and then resuming down a staircase that turned into Ship Road to Queen's Road East. Right turn past the Hopeless Centre and on in. Perfect!

But I guess it was all too much for some hashers such as the GM, who was already sipping drinks when I arrived. So what short cut did you take?

Dr. Doom provided insight on the Rambos trail by noting that it was nothing special and he would like to take the opportunity to tell everyone that he did overtake Haggis on the trail. Assistant hash flash Dribblette was determined to take pictures of me at all sorts of bad angles, not that I have any good ones. The Virgin Mary told me that she was getting her fleece as white as snow. Wrong Mary, she was getting her fleece with her name on it but it would appear as The V. Mary so she could fool unsuspecting hashers into thinking her name was The Victorious Mary. And the GM actually called the circle together with the right run number.

The Circle

Proceeds to tell a really bad Irish Joke that gets him kicked out of the circle.

The On-On

This being American Thanksgiving, our hares took us to a nice out of the way Thai restaurant. To get there you had to walk through the Thai grocery store, upstairs and past the Thai barbershop.

Food was good and I was so happy to be drinking out of my new shiny Wanchai 100 runs mug. I had heard that these are often stolen so when nature called I entrusted it to Hasher Yvette while I briefly slipped away. Mistake! Upon my return it was GONE with everyone feigning ignorance as to where it might be. I sobbed briefly but was assured by Smallbone that it would return sooner than I expected.

The On-On was great! Food, atmosphere and company were all first rate and our hares bless their hearts paid for the dinner. Cheers to that!

OnOnOn at the Wanch for everyone's drinking and dancing pleasure. Non Attendees Indy Anus and Lost at Sea were there. Much was discussed but I just can't remember any of it.

So I get on the boat to Macau and when it comes time to fill out the silly forms, I reach into my hash bag for a pen and find my new mug. How dumb was I not to have figured that out.

Sadly I'll be missing WP but look forward to being your humble scribe soon!
