This Weeks Run...

Run No:	Hares:	Place:	Date:
1194	Inflate-a-date & Yummy Mummy	Tai Wai to Kowloon Tong	7 th Feb 2010

Tai Wai this week in an A to B run set by Inflatodate and Yummy Mummy. In rain threatening conditions we gathered just below the station with the hare calling the On shortly before 4pm. He promised the B would be in a straight line as the crow flies - which it was.

The pack headed right at the station as the rain started falling and rapidly intensified. Following Dr Doom, G String and Spotted Dick we headed up onto the pedestrian flyover and up the hill to the main road. At the entrance to Lion Rock Country park some disorientation as Bware Wabbit, Strap on Sally, Verbal Diarrhoea and Hicky Slut ran in various directions.

The correct rail was confirmed up the steps into the park. On up (and up) along concrete steps until we eventually hit the pagoda at the top (under renovation). Then down and into Kowloon with magnificent sights of the old Kai Tak runway with a late Thermal Dick passing by. At the bottom, the trail indicated into the park but the real route was down the hill and onto the main Lung Cheung Road. On along heavy traffic, crossing once over and along down to Cornwall Road. From there we headed right up the road and then a left down Tat Chee Avenue to the finish in a small sitting out area with the rain in full force.

A good trail and seemed longer than the 7.2 kilometres indicated. No monkeys.

Umbrella:

The scribe requests his umbrella back (small, black and sentimental value) which was taken by someone when he went to visit the on-site toilet. Scribe pissed off that he had to walk home in the rain.
